Baltimore City and Beyond

When it comes to living options, Baltimore's got it all. Classic city neighborhoods can be found near all Baltimore campuses of Johns Hopkins University. If you don't like city living, such towns as Pikesville, Reisterstown, Owings Mills, Towson, White Marsh, Ellicott City, and Columbia offer a quieter pace, a more suburban setting, and plenty of housing alternatives. Some students choose to live in bustling Washington, D.C. Others opt for pleasant living on the Chesapeake Bay in and around Annapolis, MD (about 45 minutes and a world away). Whatever you're looking for, you can probably find housing in the Baltimore region that suits your lifestyle—and your bank account.
